Accreditation

SESNZ has reviewed the accreditation standards particularly for Exercise Physiology to now align with Exercise and Sport Science Australia, ESSA. This enables SESNZ accredited exercise physiologists (AEPs) to sit an exam held by ESSA commencing 2020 to subsequently be recognised as an AEP in Australia.

This will not only allow transferability between Australia and New Zealand but it will increase opportunities for collaborations and shared access to learning environments.

ESSA have kindly allowed SESNZ members to access their professional development podcasts, webinars and more at the cost of ESSA members.

A note from SESNZ Chair Nick Draper

Hello to everyone involved in Sport and Exercise Science in New Zealand.

This week we launch our new look website and we hope this works well for you when you go to the website.

In July, Mark Drury led our first S&C accreditation course in Christchurch, thank you Mark. This was very well attended and received by the delegates, a great weekend.

If you have any questions about SESNZ, or would like to get involved in the work of SESNZ we would be delighted to hear from you. Please contact Vanessa our National Manager or myself
